OTHER MATTERS

After confirming with the Corporate Secretary that there are no other remaining matters on the agenda, the Chairman requested Mr. Melanio Dela Cruz to read aloud questions and comments sent by the stockholders.

A question was raised on what the Corporation's prospects for the stock market for the next twelve months are, and how the Corporation's business position is in relation to said outlook.

In response, the Chairman, Mr. Paulino Soo, stated that the Corporation's prospects for the stock market in the next twelve months are expected to vary, as it typically does. It is not a feast or famine scenario, but rather a fluctuation between excellent years and less rosy ones, where the Corporation must work diligently to meet its targets. During these slower periods, when initial public offerings are scarce and customers exercise caution in their equity choices, the Corporation's primary focus remains on customer service. Thus, the Corporation has invested in additional manpower to ensure that they address all customer concerns thoroughly.

Mr. Soo added that over the Corporation's 30-year history, it has been observed that market cycles do fluctuate. Thus, as the Corporation's core business is fundamentally service-oriented, the customer-centric approach is vital. In times of market uncertainty, when customers appreciate extra attention, the Corporation stands out by providing comprehensive support, by focusing on serving customers during market fluctuations and preparing for upcoming cycles. By doing so, they are able to secure a strong market presence in the industry for when the market inevitably rebounds.
